THOMAS DIXON has just completed the manuscript of his new book

The TRAITOR

The final volume of the Trilogy of the South and we have received the manuscript. It is the most exciting and interesting novel he has written, and not about the negro.

It tells of the fall of the Ku Klux Klan. Send your order on this blank.

"The First Great English Novel of This Century"

LEWIS MELVILLE, author of a notable life of Thackeray, in the NEW YORK TIMES REVIEW of June 15th, says of

"... It is all written from the heart. . . .
In its way, as sincere as Newman's 'Apologia.'
It is epic in its conception, magnificent in its presentment—this autobiography of a great-hearted man could only be told as it is by another great-hearted man. . . . A book for laughter and for tears, and for smiles mingled with an occasional sob, that triumph achieved only by the best of humorists. . . . So entrancing that the reader will never pause to consider whether he has ever read any similar story. . . . One of the tenderest figures in modern fiction. . . . I write before the appearance of 'Alice-for-Short.' . . . 'Joseph Vance' is the book not of the last year, but of the last decade; the best thing in fiction since Mr. Meredith and Mr. Hardy; a book that must take its place, by virtue of its tenderness and pathos, its wit and humor, its love of human kind, and its virile characterization, as the first great English novel that has appeared in the twentieth century."

THE DIAL says of Mr. De Morgan's new novel,

ALICE-FOR-SHORT

"'Joseph Vance' was far and away the best novel of the year, and of many years. . . .
Mr. De Morgan's second novel . . . proves to be no less remarkable, and equally productive of almost unalloyed delight. . . . The reader . . . is hereby warned that if he skims 'Alice-for-Short' it will be to his own serious loss.
. . . The cream reaches to the dregs. . . .
A story of extraordinary interest. . . . A remarkable example of the art of fiction at its noblest."

The First Overland Railway

THE IRON WAY

By SARAH PRATT CARR

May 10, 1869, on a glorious, cloudless day, at Promontory Point, a great crowd gathered to see Leland Stanford drive the golden spike into the laurel tie, the last spike that completed the first great railway across the continent.

¶ It has been left for a woman to seize upon the dramatic material the accomplishment of this great engineering feat provided, and to use it in a novel. It is an inspiring story of that gigantic conquest above the clouds, that triumph which at last linked the East and the West together in bands of steel.

¶ The book has those strong and enduring qualities which make it rise far above the average Western story.

Handsome large 12mo, with four illustrations from drawings by JOHN W. NORTON. Striking cover design. $1.50

NOTES IN SEASON.

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & Co. announce an American edition of Ellen Key's book, "Century of the Child," which is creating a sensation in Europe.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. will publish on July 25 Thomas Dixon's new book, "The Traitor," the final volume of his trilogy of the South which tells of the fall of the Ku-Klux-Klan.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY will publish at once a new novel entitled "Temptation," by Richard Bagot, author of "Donna Diana," "The Casting of Nets," and other clever stories.

BRENTANO's have just ready a new volume by Bernard Shaw, which includes "John Bull's Other Island," from which the volume takes its title, "Major Barbara" and "How He Lied to Her Husband."

THE SAALFIELD PUBLISHING COMPANY have just ready a new book for children by Adah Louise Sutton, author of "Mr. Bunny, His Book," etc., entitled "Teddy Bears," describing the doings of a number of children and the pranks of their pets at home, on the farm and in the street. The text is illustrated with six full-page pictures in colors, and thirty-six pen-and-ink drawings.

SMALL, MAYNARD & Co. have just ready "Intimations of Immortality," edited by Helen P. Patten, which was postponed from last fall on account of the careful and elaborate editing which a volume of this character seemed to require. The result is a compilation of remarkable diversity and value. Whether life is to follow death is a question of perennial interest, and speculation and affirmation upon this unsolved problem have been rife since the dawn of human consciousness. It is natural, therefore, that an immense body of literature should have grown up around it. From this great mass of material the editor of this volume has culled out the brief but salient comments of the great and learned of olden and modern times who have expressed themselves on this subject. They have also just ready "The Happy Princess, and Other Poems," by Arthur D. Ficke. The poetic temperament of the author, the imagery characteristic of his verse, the lights and shadows of human experience that fall across the pages—all these go to distinguish this little volume among contemporaneous verse.

A. S. BARNES & Co. announce that "The Romance of Steel," by Herbert N. Casson, will positively be published during July. The delay on this book has been occasioned entirely by labor difficulties on the part of the engravers. The book will contain sixty-five full-page illustrations, including portraits of Andrew Carnegie, J. P. Morgan, George W. Perkins, Henry H. Rogers, Henry Clay Frick as a young man, Judge Elbert H. Gary and John D. Rockefeller. Among the early pioneers are portraits of William Kelly, Captain Eber B. Ward, Sir Henry Bessemer and Mrs. Rebecca Lukens. Besides the regular edition there will be an edition de luxe bound in three-quarters leather, gilt top and boxed. They will bring out early in September a book for children by Helen Colman, entitled "Little Travellers Around the World," with ten full-page colored illustrations, twenty full-page sepia drawings and a generous sprinkling of line drawings throughout the text, all by George Bonawitz. The cover design is very attractive. It pictures a number of children dressed in typical tourist costumes, travelling at a rapid pace around the globe. They are all in characteristic tourist attitudes and have all the paraphernalia that tourists require.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

- Clark, Egbert Norman. The golden crisis. Columbus, O., Oasis Publishing Co., 1907. c. 9+115 p. D. cl., $1.
The author gives a retrospective analysis of the human race in the world while it was under the succeeding influences of the Sun, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Venus, and Mercury (the present age). In this age will come "the golden crisis." The world is now wholly material and sordid; a disastrous financial panic will mark its closing year, with the United States as the centre. Then there will be a new Sun lighting up the moon, which will then predominate in influencing a world of idealists and altruists which will work until Humanity becomes God. The author offers no remedy for present evils; he merely prophesies a hopeful, satisfying future.
- Clark, Mrs. Mary Mead. A corner in India. Phil., American Baptist Publication Society, 1907. c. 16+168 p. il. D. cl., $1.
The corner in India is up in the Naga Hills of Upper Burma. Mrs. Clark gives an account of missionary life among these mountain people, with whom she and her husband have had years of experience.

Fräulein Schmidt and Mr. Anstruther; by the author of "Elizabeth and her German garden." N. Y., Scribner, 1907. c. '06, '07. 332 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Fräulein Schmidt is the daughter of a German professor in Jena in whose house Mr. Anstruther, a young Englishman, is boarded while a student at the University. On the evening he leaves Germany he tells Miss Schmidt he loves her. The book is in the form of letters from Miss Schmidt, first full of ingenuously expressed passionate love. Her lover tires, becomes engaged to another, who later leaves him for a duke. Miss Schmidt's letters change in tone but go on regularly, full of all the details of German life and written with optimism, hope and love towards all the world. The author of "Elizabeth and her German garden" does not make the mistake of making all end conventionally. Miss Schmidt could not trust Mr. Anstruther a second time.

Frenssen, Gustav. The three comrades; tr. from the German. Bost., Dana Estes & Co., [1907.] c. 13-362 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The author of "Jörn Uhl" and "Holy Land" lays his scene in Holstein by the North Sea and the story begins three days after Gravelotte during the Franco-Prussian War. Three totally dissimilar characters have been friends since early youth. The tale gives minute descriptions of the manners and customs of the farmers and fishermen of Schleswig-Holstein. Separated for a time "the three comrades" come together again at last and one and all influence each other's lives for good. The girl characters are specially well drawn.

The author of "The district attorney" has again written a political novel setting forth present conditions. A young governor is elected to put the state into decent political order. He is opposed by the United States Senator, who feels that he "by right divine" holds political supremacy in the state he has ruled so long. He has been ambitious and has used crafty methods to gain his ends, which the new governor discovers and makes public. The Senator has a daughter and thereby hangs the tale.

Wardle, Jane. The artistic temperament. N. Y., McClure, Phillips & Co., 1907. c. 355 p. D. cl., $1.50.

It is rumored that the writer is author of "England and the English." Story plays among the artistic circles of London. Stephen Cartmel falls in love with his friend's wife while painting her portrait. She is tired of her hum-drum life with an adoring husband and is almost ready to elope with Stephen when "the plot thickens." Stephen is engaged to a girl who moves among the titled people and he totally lacks moral principles. He holds that a man with the artistic temperament "is incapable of a crime against the beautiful, is incapable of a mean, petty or dishonorable action, incapable of an action contrary in spirit to all that we imply when we say gentleman."

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JUNE 22, 1907.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

BOOKSELLING IN SUMMER.

THOUGH summer this year has been rather backward, plans for outings and vacations have no doubt been fully matured, and shortly the exodus will begin in good earnest.

In our endeavor to accommodate the WEEKLY to the changing opportunities of the bookseller throughout the year, we venture to offer at this time a few hints for making the most of the summer trade.

The trade in novels and similar light reading always takes the lead during the vacation season, and can therefore without hesitation be liberally provided for. Business in this direction is improving steadily, and has become far more profitable, owing quite as much to the fact that more good copyright books are made now than formerly, as to the fact that the mills which for years unceasingly ground out stuff made simply to feed the counters of the book butchers have been obliged to shut down. The American public, too, it is pleasant to note, is becoming even more fastidious as to the exterior of its reading-matter, as well as to that of other necessities it packs into its summer trunks. The bookseller, therefore, has every year a wider range among a better public, and should prosper accordingly.

Then there are guide-books as well as books of home and foreign travel, always in demand by tourists. The range of these, which should presently be brought prominently forward on the counters, is limited only by the size of the world, and they offer a good opportunity for sales. Out-door books, of which there has never been a better nor a more varied line to choose from, should this year find a large and interested constituency whose curiosity may have been whetted by the recent heated discussion of the subject of so-called "nature-fakers."

One of the most important aids in pushing business during this season is the preparation of a tempting catalogue of books suitable for shore and mountain reading. It should be prepared with the view of bringing to the special attention of summer visitors the classes of books to which attention is being called and of giving attractive foretastes of the delights stored in them. Such a catalogue should be found serviceable by two classes of the trade: first, city dealers with regular customers, whom it is desirable to follow "with the compliments of the season" into summer haunts, and who may retain trade by filling orders by mail for the multitudes who go far out of sight of any bookstore, but can be cultivated by the aid of Uncle Sam; second, booksellers at or near summer resorts, who desire to pleasantly acquaint summer visitors that there is a bookstore near at hand from which they can be supplied. With such an aid old customers may be retained, and with energy and foresight much new trade can be created.

Those who for the first time establish branch stores at summer resorts will do well to remember, that the "summer boarder," like the eel, strenuously objects to being "skinned;" hence the dealer who is intent upon making a success of his summer venture must be guided by the same rules that govern his business policy at home. He must be as enterprising and alert to meet demands in his summer quarters, as he would be at home during the holiday season, if not more so, because that which a customer wants during his vacation time, he wants at once or as soon as possible, or not at all. Then if the alert bookseller will provide a cool, shady store, and cheerful and intelligent service his customers will not object if the prices are a trifle higher than they are at home.

E. P. DUTTON & Co., to test the demand of the trade for fiction at net prices, as expressed at the recent convention of the American Booksellers' Association, will shortly bring out a novel entitled "Bachelor Betty," by Winifred James, at $1.25 net, with discounts ranging from ¼ off on single copies to ⅓ and 10 off on lots of one hundred. Of course, as "one swallow maketh not summer" so one novel published at net by one publishing house may not be considered as a fair test of the net system so far as it relates to fiction. However, humble as this beginning may be, it is evidence that at least one publishing house is ready to meet the retail trade in this matter all the way. It now remains to be seen to what extent the delegates present at the annual convention of the American Booksellers' Association voiced the general opinion of the trade in regard to net fiction.

THE many friends throughout the trade of Mr. A. Growoll will be interested in knowing that on Wednesday, June 19, he completed thirty years of faithful service to the book-trade in the office of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, where for the greater part of that period he has been Managing Editor of this journal, and celebrated also his birthday. In recognition of the long association with this office, and of the personal friendships which have been its result, a loving cup was presented to him on that day by his office associates—filled with the spirit of goodwill to which we are sure a great many friends outside as well as inside the office would gladly contribute in overflowing measure. THE ENGLISH BOOKSELLERS' ANNUAL CONVENTION.

THE ASSOCIATED BOOKSELLERS OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND held its annual meeting on May 31 at Eastbourne, the home of the president of the Association, Alderman H. W. Keay, who is also filling the office of mayor of the popular Sussex resort. The convention was attended by upwards of eighty members of the Association and three representatives of the Publishers' Association, including E. Bell, the president. There were also present the wives of a number of the members and M. Peron, the mayor of Boulogne.

Preceding the business meeting the president and Mrs. Keay, as mayor and mayoress, gave a reception, with a concert and ball, on the evening of May 31, at the Town Hall, which was attended by about 500 persons, including many of the leading inhabitants of Eastbourne.

The business meeting was held on June 1 also at the Town Hall. The report of the Council contained the following synopsis of books published during the year, which shows the steady progress of the net system:

Subject Total Pub. Price.				Net Total Pub. Price.
Books.	£	s.	d.	Books.	£	s.	d.
1901...5675...1211	8	7		2322...983	3	4
1902...6091...1239	10	11½		3050...1247	15	10½
1903...5198...951	6	10½		3581...1567	11	3
1904...5382...994	5	11		4303...1550	19	5
1905...5621...847	18	6½		4617...1480	12	8
1906...5843...814	2	1		5136...1646	18	7

The president, referring to these figures, said that the members would notice, if they looked at the Subject column, one peculiarity. In 1901 the number of subject books published was 5675, and in 1906 it was 5843, so that even these books had increased numerically. But if they looked at the relative totals of the published prices they would see that in the former year the amount was £1211 8s. 7d.; whereas last year, although they had more books published, the value had fallen to £814 2s. 1d. This, Mr. Keay, thought, was an important point—the more so when they perused the results touching net books. Whilst in 1901 the number of net books published was 2322, the number had risen last year to 5136; the total having more than doubled. This showed that the principle of the net book system was gaining in favor, and that the publishers were beginning to realize the system was an advantage to them as well as to those who sold their books. As he had observed before, they did like to see a little profit after they had done a certain amount of work. The profit on the net book was small; nevertheless, they liked it assured and not frittered away by heavy discounts such as had to be allowed on subject books. True, the total published price had increased from £983 3s. 4d. to £1646 18s. 7d.; but this was little more than the total for 1902, when the net books published were 3050, or more than 2000 below last year's figure. This showed that there were more cheap books being published, and less dear ones. It was, indeed, a remarkable fact that literature of all kinds was being published at a much cheaper rate than formerly. He supposed The Times would put it down to what they have been doing, but it might be pointed out that this had been going on before even The Times thought of it. Cheap literature was not the outcome of the scurrilous articles that had appeared in the journal referred to; but it had arisen through the publishers realizing what the public wanted.

In referring to the questionable means adopted by The Times Book Club to obtain books Mr. Keay recalled an article in The Times running down those who circulated bad literature—commenting on how bad this literature was and how harmfully it was likely to affect the rising generation. But when their own interests, and the interests of their own system were concerned, this lofty attitude went for nothing. The Times had a convenient way, when it suited their purposes, of saying that The Times was not the Book Club, and that the Book Club was not The Times; but this he knew, that those responsible for the extraordinary practices to which The Times had sunk had sent direct to a man who was one of the biggest dealers in this pernicious type of literature to get the books they wanted for their club. It was said all was fair in war; but he would leave those present to say what they thought of a paper—recognized in the past as the grand journal of England—which denounced a particular form of literature and then made use of people who vended this very literature for their books. They had thought better things of The Times.

The election of officers resulted in the re-election of Mr. Keay as president, F. Hanson and Frank A. Denny as vice-presidents, Calder Turner as hon. treasurer, and Edwin Pearce as hon. secretary.

The convention concluded with a banquet at the Grand Hotel on the evening of June 1; services at St. Saviour's on Sunday morning, and a visit in the afternoon to Compton Place on the invitation of the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire; and on Monday a drive to Pevensey Castle and Battle Abbey, and a visit to Normanhurst, the seat of Lord Brassey. The finale was a visit in the evening to the Devonshire Park Theatre, which provided a gala performance.

THE WERNER COMPANY'S TWENTIETH ANNIVERSARY.

THE WERNER COMPANY, of Akron, Ohio, celebrates its twentieth anniversary this year, having been founded in 1887 by P. E. Werner, its present president and general manager. The firm really had its start in 1875, when Mr. Werner opened up a printing business at first principally in the newspaper line. It was not until 1887, however, that the foundation of the business as it has developed, was laid, land purchased and buildings begun that were specially designed and equipped for the company's particular line of business.

In a very handsome memorial pamphlet these buildings and the activities of the Werner Company are described in detail. Twenty years ago one hundred people were employed; to-day the working force numbers nearly fifteen hundred, most of them skilled artisans. During 1906 the manufacturing output included more than 3,000,000 large books, upwards of 15,000,000 large and finely illustrated catalogues and millions of other printed, lithographed and engraved items. If the books alone that were manufactured by the Werner Company last year were laid on one pile, one on top of the other, this pile would reach ninety-six miles into the air.

The eleven buildings occupied by the company cover ten acres of ground, and are equipped with machinery and tools of the most modern design that are needed in composing, engraving, lithographing, printing and binding.

THE AUTHOR OF JOSEPH VANCE.

WILLIAM FRED DE MORGAN, author of "Joseph Vance"—son of Augustus DeMorgan, the mathematician, and grandson, great-grandson and great-great-grandson respectively of three officers in the old East India Co.'s service—was educated at University College, London, and began to study as an artist in 1858; became student of Royal Academy in 1859; practiced the Arts and Crafts in some form or other till early in the present century, when he wrote the beginning of "Joseph Vance," to see if he had a turn for fiction. He decided in the negative, but his wife found the ms. and made him finish it.

The pottery and tile works known as De-

Morgan ware was begun in '72, (if not earlier,) and twenty years later Mr. DeMorgan published all the particulars of the lustre process, that was one of its most interesting features. (See Journal of Soc. of Arts, June 24, '92.) In his opinion secrets have as little to do with success in the arts generally as pigments and vehicles have to do with the particular art of painting. The tile manufacture has only recently terminated, and it is not now even certain that it may not be revived, as its extinction was not due to ordinary commercial failure. In fact, three months ago it was thought likely it would continue. However, at the present moment there is no doubt that Mr. DeMorgan and Daniel Defoe are the only two British novelists who have had to give up a tile making business under compulsion.

An impression that "Joseph Vance" was in some sort founded on its author's own experience is an entirely false one, although it is not uncommon among readers of that work. "Joseph Vance" and his author have nothing in common, unless it is a love of engineering. Mr. DeMorgan is the inventor in his own conceit of the best duplex bicycle and the most effective sieve in existence—but then one knows what authors are! Otherwise, there is no character in the book that could be identified with a living creature, past or present, except the butting sweep, whom its author found in a newspaper more than forty years ago, as he supposes. The characters in "Alice-for-Short" are just equally imaginary. Nevertheless, its readers are certain to imagine that Charles Heath reflects his fabricator's own experience. No two people, however, could be much more unlike. Of course, all an author's facts are jottings from the world he has seen, and quicquid agunt homines is just as much the farrago of Mr. DeMorgan's libellus as any one else's—only perhaps his tales, so far, contain less of ira and voluptas than modern best-sellers generally do.

REPORT OF DIRECTORS OF CONGREGATIONAL S. S. AND PUB. SOCIETY.

RECOMMENDATIONS for a reduction in the number of directors, from twenty-one to twelve members, and a more thorough management of the affairs of the society were made on June 18 in the report of a committee of five appointed to make a thorough investigation of the Congregational Sunday School and Publishing Society in Boston. The committee, which was named at the annual meeting following the larceny of paper stock valued at $12,000, submitted its report at the adjourned meeting of the society at the Congregational Building also on the 18th inst. It is stated that the theft of paper was not by any employee of the society, or any one connected with the house.

The report alleged that some of the directors took their duties too lightly. A criminal prosecution, the committee adds, would have been better than a civil action in the case of paper larceny. No other discrepancy was found in the accounts.

OBITUARY NOTES.

J. G. FREEMAN, vice-president of the International Book and Stationery Company at El Paso, Tex., died in that city on May 26. Mr. Freeman was born in Nova Scotia in 1864 and subsequently settled at Turner's Falls, Mass., where he was first engaged in the drug business. His tastes led him into bookselling, and about eight years ago he went to Texas on account of his health. Taking up his residence in El Paso, he helped to organize the firm of Blakesley & Freeman, which afterward became the International Book and Stationery Company. About a year ago Mr. Freeman retired from active business.

THE REV. DR. DAVID McALLISTER, a prominent minister of the Presbyterian Church, died in Pittsburgh June 13. Dr. McAllister was born in New York City, August 25, 1835, and began his working life in connection with a printing establishment. Abandoning the business career he entered Union College, from which he graduated in 1860. From that time on he either preached or taught until he became minister of the Eighth Street Reformed Presbyterian Church of Pittsburgh twenty years ago. Dr. McAllister was well known as an editor of religious papers. He was one of the founders of the Christian Statesman, and its editor from 1867 to 1902. From 1895 he was also the proprietor and publisher. From 1892 to 1896 he edited and published the Christian Reformer and Dissenter. He was the author of a "Manual of Christian Civil Government," "Poets and Poetry of the Covenant," "The Constitutionality of Reading the Bible in Our Public Schools," and other books, in addition to monographs and magazine articles. He was also prominent as a lecturer in behalf of the National Reform Association.

POST-CARD NOTES.

H. C. BRANCH has opened the Maanexit post-card store at Webster, Mass., and will handle post-cards exclusively, showing an unusually large assortment.

W. G. McFARLANE, 704 Broadway, New York, is marketing a line of life model comic post-cards. He has just issued a new series of thirty subjects, samples of which are ready for distribution.

THE GERMAN-AMERICAN SOUVENIR POST CARD COMPANY, New York City, has incorporated in New York with a capital of $2000. The directors are Leon Goldstein, Adele Goldstein and Mendel Gottsfell, all of New York.

THE AMERICAN PHOTOCOLORTYPE COMPANY, 337 Dearborn Street, Chicago, calls attention elsewhere in this issue to its unusual facilities for making post-cards to order from photographs, in photosimile sepia tone, phototypes, carbon effects or color photos, natural colors, at prices ranging from $5 to $7.50 the thousand. They make post-cards from any size photo or print and offer to deliver them in ten days' time. They always carry in stock the plate of hundreds of scenes along routes of transportation lines by land and rail. It will be practically as cheap for a local dealer to get this company to make post-cards of views in his locality as it is to get a lot of miscellaneous pictures that have no relation to his surroundings and that may be had everywhere else. Not that we would discourage stocking up with everything good that sells, but every dealer should first be able to show exclusive cards showing scenes of his neighborhood. It is claimed that three thousand million post-cards were sold in 1906. How many more millions will be sold from now on simply rests with the wise, enterprising dealers who will act at once in supplying the demand for post-cards by the American public which is really just beginning.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

MOSES HARMAN, 500 Fulton Street, Chicago, will publish in July the first number of The American Journal of Eugenics, to be devoted to the subject of race propagation and child culture, appealing to specialists and educators, people actively engaged in reform and school work, as well as to parents. The magazine will be edited as well as published by Mr. Harman.

The Booklover's Magazine, published by Otto Schulze & Co., Edinburgh, in its July issue gives a description of "The Library of Trinity College, Dublin," prepared by Sir Edward Sullivan. It is fully illustrated. The same number contains an essay on Felicien Rops, by Mr. Konody, and an article by Strickland Gibson, "A Scrap Collection of Bindings," (in the Bodleian,) both illustrated; also, "Early Issues and Facsimiles," by J. H. Slater; and "La Comtesse de Verrue," by W. M. Rigg.

BUSINESS NOTES.

AURORA, NEB.—J. W. Phillips has succeeded to the book business of N. P. Spafford.

CHICAGO, ILL.—It is reported that the Monarch Book Company has been petitioned into involuntary bankruptcy.

FITCHBURG, MASS.—Meader & Horne, booksellers, have been succeeded by John B. Horne.

FULTON, KY.—The book and stationery store of Lovelace & Roper a week ago was destroyed by fire, which caused a total loss of $20,000.

NEW YORK CITY.—Davidson Brothers, for thirty-three years among London's leading fine art publishers and for seven years among the leaders in publishing post-cards, have opened an American branch at 73 Fifth Avenue. They control the Tom Browne series of comic post-cards, over 500 different designs, sketched by the well known artist, Tom Browne. They have on view at their salesrooms a large variety of beautiful photo post-cards, birthday cards of original and exclusive designs and other art goods which are all well worth seeing.

NEW YORK CITY.—The affairs of the Derry-Collard Company, publishers, 109 Liberty Street, are in the hands of a receiver.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Macmillan Company has removed its executive offices to temporary quarters at 57 Fifth Avenue, until their new building is erected at 64 Fifth Avenue, on the site of the building hitherto occupied by them, and adjoining the one in which their retail business is carried on.

NEW YORK CITY.—Newson & Co., school book publishers, have removed to 27 West Twenty-third Street.

NEW YORK CITY.—The main office of the Physical Culture Publishing Company has been removed from Physical Culture City, N. J., to 807 Flatiron Building, New York.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Presbyterian Board of Publication will shortly remove its sales department from the second floor of the Presbyterian Building at 156 Fifth Avenue to the large store on the ground floor at the northwest corner of Fifth Avenue and Twentieth Street.

PEABODY, KAN.—Roy F. Fiske, bookseller, has been succeeded by George and Fred Lyons.

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH.—Frank H. Leib, bookseller, it is reported, has been petitioned into bankruptcy by a number of his creditors.

VERNAL, UTAH.—F. M. Young, bookseller, has sold out to the Bracken Clothing Co.

WASHINGTON, IA.—G. C. Roscoe, bookseller, has sold out to Nicola & Harmon.

WATERTOWN, ME.—M. P. Woodcock has bought the store here formerly owned by the Washburn heirs, which has been conducted as a book and stationery store for thirty-six years.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

T. FISHER UNWIN will publish early next month, in his Green Cloth Library, a new novel by S. R. Crockett, entitled "Me and Myn."

THE copy of Gabriel Thomas's "Account of the Province and Country of Pennsylvania," which was mentioned in these columns last week, brought at auction $495. This specimen had only one map instead of two, as in the Harford copy, recently sold.

JOHN LANE COMPANY, New York, announce the third edition of "The Wingless Victory," the latest novel by Miss M. P. Willcocks, which has already secured a success in England and is fast making its impression in this country. The publishers are now going to press with another edition.

THE JOHN C. WINSTON COMPANY, Philadelphia, have just published a volume of poems by Jennie Harrison, sister of the well-known clergyman, Floyd W. Tomkins, of Holy Trinity, Philadelphia. The volume presents a lifetime of writing and thought along deeply religious lines.

H. B. TURNER & Co. are preparing a new edition of W. Stanley Braithwaite's excellent collection—"The Book of Elizabethan Verse," which has been carefully revised by a number of scholars and critics. Even the notes have not been spared and the newly-added brief biographies of authors have been prepared with the utmost care.

IN connection with the publication of "Beatrix of Clare," John Reed Scott's new spirited romance, which the Lippincotts issued last week, it is interesting to note that the author has signed a contract permitting the dramatization of his successful novel of 1906, "The Colonel of the Red Huzzars," and that the play is slated for production in the autumn.

THE FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY have just ready a new religious book by the Rev. Dr. Charles L. Goodsell, pastor of Calvary M. E. Church, New York City, and author of "The Old Darnman," etc. The new book is entitled "Pathways to the Best," and contains the best fruits of many years of study and practical work of one of the foremost ministers of the Methodist denomination. His aim has been to present what he believes to be the most wholesome and uplifting aspect of Christian faith.

THE letters of that witty and learned cleric, Dean Hole, are to be published early in the fall by the Macmillan Company. These letters, written to intimate friends and members of his family, begin with his undergraduate days, and are full of allusions to all the great Englishmen with whom he was closely associated. More than that, they are in themselves delightful letters, being full of the shrewd wit and kindly humor for which the late Dean of Rochester was noted. The work will be illustrated with portraits and a number of facsimiles.

"A QUESTION of ethics might be raised," according to the New York Times Saturday Review of Books, "if those primarily concerned were not more likely to be flattered than injured, by the action of Ralph Hall Caine, who is embarking in the publishing trade under the style of Collier & Co. This Mr. Caine is the son of Hall Caine, the novelist. He says his only reason for adopting the house name of Collier is the fact that it is one which is associated with success in America. It is a curious move. Collier & Co. will establish 'themselves' in Tudor Street, and will begin with three 3-shilling novels, one of them by Hall Caine, who just now is devoting much energy to the campaign for shorter novels."

E. P. DUTTON & Co. publish this week a new work by Frank T. Bullen, entitled "Our Heritage the Sea;" "The Old Country," a romance by Henry Newbolt; "The Asiatic Danger in the Colonies," by L. E. Neame; "Russia and Reform," by Bernard Pares; also, a new edition of "Municipal Trade," by Major Leonard Darwin. In their Miniature Reference Library they have just ready a "Dictionary of the Bible," by A. M. Hyamson, illustrated, and "My Jest Book," by Mark Lemon. In their New Universal Library Macaulay's "Lays of Ancient Rome," and his "Constitutional and Other Essays;" Carlyle's "Past and Present;" Help's "Friends in Council;" and "Companions of My Solitude;" and V. Hugo's "The Last Days of a Condemned."

H. M. CALDWELL COMPANY announce that by special arrangement with the English publishers they have secured the exclusive rights for the United States and Canada for the Great Galleries of Europe. Each volume of the series will contain sixty or more illustrations of the chief works contained in the gallery with which it deals, and will be reproduced by the very best methods of half-tone process and printed in sepia on art paper. An added interest to these little volumes will be the introductions and the short notes on the pictures in which are embodied facts connected with their history or that of the artist by whom they were painted. The first five volumes to be issued, and which will be ready on or about August 1, will be "The National Gallery," "The Tate Gallery," "The Louvre" and "The Luxembourg." The books will be bound in cloth as well as in limp leather.

ROMEYN B. HOUGH, Lowville, N. Y., has written and will publish shortly a "Handbook of the Trees of the Northern States and Canada, East of the Rocky Mountains." The book is designed to meet the wants alike of the amateur observer of trees, the lumberman and the technical botanist. The work will be comprised in a single volume of about 480 octavo pages, and will be sold for $8 or $10, according to binding. There will be illustrations from 690 photographic negatives and 191 line engravings, by which one will be able to identify and compare all the native and naturalized trees of the territory covered, while the text will give much information concerning them. The specimens for illustration have been photographed against a measured background, so that their natural sizes are at once made apparent. The territorial distribution of each tree is shown by a small individual map. As a further aid to study there is an illustration of a magnified cross section of grain of at least one species of each genus of tree.

LOTHROP, LEE & SHEPARD have in preparation two new books by George Cary Eggleston, one entitled "Love is the Sum of it All," a plantation romance, the scene of which is laid in Virginia in the time of "Reconstruction." The story will be illustrated by Herman Heyer. The other is entitled "Long Knives," and is a graphic narrative of adventure, based upon the romantic wonder story of George Rogers Clark's truly Napoleonic conquest of all the region north of the Ohio for the struggling young American republic. Among other books under way are "Gayle Langford," a romance of a Tory belle and a patriot captain, by Harold Morton Kramer, the events of which occur at about the time of the Declaration of Independance in Philadelphia and Trenton, for which H. C. Edwards is making the pictures; two new books by that favorite writer for boys, Edward Stratemeyer—"Defending His Flag, or, a boy in blue and a boy in gray," a story of the War Between the States, and "Treasure Seekers of the Andes, or, American Boys in Peru," the fifth volume of the Pan American series; also, "Songs of the Average Man," by Sam Walter Foss, who in every sense of the word is a poet of the people, who has a clear, ringing message that charms and amuses while making a point that is worth while. Mr. Foss's book will be illustrated by Merle Johnson.

T. S. BECKWITH & Co., Petersburg, Va., have just published a colored "Map of the Battlefields Around Petersburg, Va.," a sketch of the entrenched lines of the Federal and Confederate troops in the immediate front of Petersburg in 1865, surveyed under the direction of Colonel N. Michler, of the U. S. A. Engineers. On the covers of the map is given a sketch of the siege of Petersburg during 1865, and a brief description of the patriotic services of "The Cockade City of the Union" during the Colonial wars, the Revolution, the War of 1812, and the Mexican and Spanish-American wars, etc. The map is not only interesting as a souvenir, but will also be found useful to the student of military science. The retail price is twenty-five cents. The Messrs. Beckwith have also just put on the market an attractive souvenir of Petersburg and Jamestown combined, in the shape of a bronze badge consisting of two shields, on one of which is shown the old church tower at Jamestown between portraits of Pocahontas and Captain John Smith, the design resting on a replica of the Virginia peanut. On the other shield is the inscription: "Souvenir of the Battle of the Crater and Other Battlefields Around Petersburg, 1864-1865," and suspended from a chain hangs a real bullet or minnie ball guaranteed to have been found on the battlefield. This souvenir is neatly boxed and retails for forty cents.

A. C. McCLURG & Co. have just published in the series of Literature of Libraries in the 17th and 18th Centuries, edited by John Cotton Dana and Henry W. Kent, "A Brief Outline of the History of Libraries," by Justus Lipsius, translated by John Cotton Dana from the second edition, (Antwerp, 1607,) the last from the hand of the author, with an introductory note by Henry W. Kent. As Mr. Kent points out bibliophiles owe their thanks to Lipsius because he published the first history of libraries, in the modern sense of the word—a history which is as fresh and useful to-day as it was when it was written, all similar histories since his time having borrowed freely from Lipsius, or, like Edwards, have used his references—brought together after close and conscientious searching of the original authorities in Latin, Greek and Hebrew—for further elaboration of their texts. Another volume in the same series is "News from France, or, a Description of the Library of Cardinal Mazarin, preceded by The Surrender of the Library of Cardinal Mazarin," two tracts written by Gabriel Naudé. "The Surrender of the Library of Cardinal Mazarin" has been translated into English, for the first time, by Miss Victoria Richmond, of the Newark Free Public Library, and by John Cotton Dana; the "Description of the Library of Cardinal Mazarin" is from The Harleian Miscellany, (London, 1808.) The two tracts are prefaced by a Biographical Sketch of Gabriel Naudé, (1600-1653,) by Ruth Shepard Granniss. The books are printed in an edition of 250 copies in sixteenmo form and in an edition of 25 copies on large paper.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

1st In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash.]

2nd Write your wants plainly, and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," book-sellers should take the usual precautions, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

SEND for Circular No. 98, showing styles of work offered at above prices. Proofs submitted for correction or approval before orders are completed. Compare our work with post cards made anywhere in the world. Hundreds of views now on hand of scenes along routes of transportation lines by land and rail. Assuredly there are no greater spenders of money or better judges of pictorial advertising than railroad and steamship companies. Photography and reproduction must be first-class to suit them. This is a specialty with us. We have the workmen and facilities for making the kind of post cards that will always sell at top prices to the American public.

American Post Cards are standard United States Government size, $3\frac{1}{4} \times 5\frac{1}{4}$ inches, picture covering one side entirely. Views shown in this advertisement are only portions of cards.

RETAIL DEALERS ORDER YOUR OWN LOCAL VIEWS MADE

Compare our prices with those of any other responsible concern in the United States or Europe. Then compare our work with that of any concern in the world at any price. The enterprising dealer that gets local cards out first is the one that gets the money and controls the trade in his locality. Three thousand millions of post cards were sold in 1906. How many more millions will be sold from now on simply rests with the wise, up-to-date dealers that act at once in supplying the unprecedented demand for post cards by the American public which is really just beginning.

GREATEST CHILDREN'S STORY EVER WRITTEN
SALES PROVE IT

TEDDY BEARS

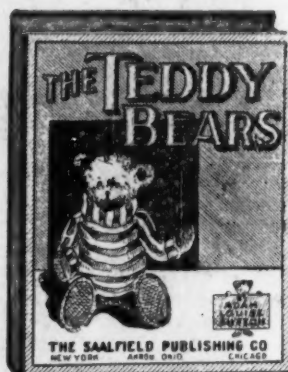

Author of "Mr. Bunny, His Book," "Baby Dear," etc.

6 full-page illustrations in Colors
36 pen-and-ink drawings
Front and back cover designs in colors

A handsome juvenile book, good type, fine paper, illustrations in four colors, strong binding, boards, quarto. $1.00

The Teddy Bears are not alone the quaint little stuffed creatures that at present seem to hold the world in their furry paws. They are wise, comical, half human little fellows, and they fill this book with their merry and amazing pranks. At home, at the farm, in the street, they are always developing something new in the way of mischief and good times.

The author has caught the spirit of childhood, and has transmitted it to her pages. The children in her story are Real, and their pets are live animals, just such animals as one finds in a home where they are petted and caressed and become almost human.
